

This two-day symposium is designed to provide an extensive review of select acute care and critical care nursing practice topics.

FACULTY: Deborah Tuggle, MN, APRN, CCNS, FCCM is a Clinical Nurse Specialist with over 30 years of experience in critical care. She is a published author, national speaker and chapter leader in the American Association of Critical Care Nurses (AACN). She is also an active member, committee leader and Paragon Coach for the Society of Critical Care Medicine (SCCM). As founder of the continuing education and consultation company, Critical Care Curriculum, Ms. Tuggle has been instrumental in enriching patient care at hospitals around the nation. Her work promotes many best practice initiatives including the AACN Practice Alerts, Surviving Sepsis Campaign interventions, IHI infection prevention bundles, hypothermia in cardiac arrest protocols and more. She has developed learning opportunities for nurses and ancillary staff including bedside skill training for ECG and hemodynamic monitoring accuracy and successful rescue responses for patients in crisis. Her consultation with hospitals on critical care competency programs has brought them in alignment with AACN expectations and promoted greater confidence and attainment of CCRN and PCCN credentials. Ms. Tuggle is a graduate of the University of Kentucky and the University of Washington Schools of Nursing and employed as a CNS at Central Baptist Hospital in Lexington, KY. She has a passionate commitment to life-long learning and is known for her high quality courses that are both evidence-based and patient-oriented. Her dynamic style and sense of humor keeps audiences engaged entertained and motivated to improve their practice.
